Abstract

Taiwan's Election and Democratization Study (TEDS) is a face-to-face survey interview project aiming at collecting data of voting behavior and changes in democratic values in Taiwan on a regular basis. TEDS 2001 was the first implementation of this long-term project immediately after the fourth Legislative Yuan (the Congress) election held on December 1, 2001. All the questions listed in the CSES Micro Questionnaire Module 2 are integrated into the TEDS 2001 questionnaire. The raw data and the related documents of TEDS 2001 were submitted to the CSES for deposit for CESE module 2. This paper briefly reports the TEDS 2001 project and offers some suggestions to the CSES Module 3.

Prepared for presentation at the Comparative Study of Electoral Systems (CSES) Plenary Session 2003, Stockholm, Sweden, October 3-4, 2003.

Taiwan's Election and Democratization Study, 2001 (TEDS 2001): A Brief Report

Background

Democratization in Taiwan in the past one and a half decades attracts attention worldwide. The first power transition from the long ruling Kuomintang (KMT) Party to the Democratic Progressive Party (DDP) in the year 2000 presidential election witnessed the flowering of this democratization process. However, the KMT still controlled the majority seats of the Legislative Yuan and the newly inaugurated DDP party formed the first divided government at the national level in Taiwan. It is not surprising that all political parties involved attempted to mobilize their support to preserve and gain seats in the Legislative Yuan election held in the December of 2001.

TEDS 2001 Project

TEDS 2001 project was carried out as an island-wide face-to-face survey interview during the period of late January to early April of 2002, immediately after the 2001 Legislative Yuan election. This post-election study, funded by the National Science Council and its Social Science Research Center, includes about 180 questions in its questionnaire probing respondents' political attitudes, voting behavior as well as demographic characteristics. During its planning stage, the nine-member TEDS Planning Committee, chaired by this author, demands for TEDS' incorporation into the cross-national CSES project. Therefore, all the questions listed in the CSES Micro Questionnaire Module 2 are meticulously integrated into the TEDS 2001 questionnaire. The raw data and the related documents of TEDS 2001 were then submitted to the CSES for deposit for CESE module 2 in the early July of 2003.

There are 2,022 completed interviews in TEDS 2001. The distributions of demographic characteristics in the population and the sample are listed as Table 1:

Table 1. Comparison of Sample to Population

Greater details of the TEDS2001 study as well as its sample design and data collection are reported in the Appendices I and II of this paper.

Some Reflections

The PI and co-PIs of the TEDS 2001 project are proud to participate in the cross-national CESE project and deposit its results as part of the CSES Module 2. However, during the process of drafting its questionnaire and conducting the field interview, we do encounter some problems.

The most troublesome question involves left-right identification (Q20s). Although no doubt important for studying European politics, we suspect that most people in Taiwan do not perceive politics this way. Indeed many of our well-trained interviewers report that most of respondents seem to be confused by this batch of questions and either declined to answer or responded with great hesitation. The sample distributions of responses to these questions are listed in Table 2:

As can be seen, more than half of respondents answer “don’t know” to these questions. Fortunately, these questions are placed at the K section of the TEDS 2001 questionnaire, the second to the last section. Therefore, they should have only minor impact on respondents’ answers to the rest of the questions.

Suggestions for Module 3

We do suggest, based on our experiences with TEDS 2001, that the type of left-right ideology questions (Q20) should be treated as optional in CSES Module 3. That is, for those countries whose citizens do not conceive politics from left-right viewpoints, this group of questions can be excluded from their questionnaire.

Comparative Study of Electoral Systems Module 2: Macro Report

Version 2002-10-23

Country (Date of Election): Taiwan (the Republic of China), December 1, 2001

NOTE TO THE COLLABORATORS: The information provided in this report contributes to an important part of the CSES project- your efforts in providing these data are greatly appreciated!
Any supplementary documents that you can provide (i.e. electoral legislation, party manifestos, electoral commission reports, media reports) are also appreciated, and will be made available with this report to the CSES community on the CSES web page.

Part I: Data Pertinent to the Election at which the Module was Administered

1. Report the number of portfolios (cabinet posts) held by each party in cabinet, prior to the most recent election. (If one party holds all cabinet posts, simply write "all".)

Name of Political Party	Number of Portfolios
Democratic Progressive Party (DPP)	All

1a. What was the size of the cabinet before the election?...21 (including premier and vice premier)

2. Report the number of portfolios (cabinet posts) held by each party in cabinet, after the most recent election. (If one party holds all cabinet posts, simply write "all").

Name of Political Party	Number of Portfolios
Democratic Progressive Party (DPP)	All

2a. What was the size of the cabinet after the election? ...21 (including premier and vice premier)

3a. Were there any significant parties not represented in parliament before the election?

3b. Were there any significant parties not represented in parliament after the election?

New Party (founded in 1993).

3c. Were there any other non-represented parties or independent actors whom you believe to have had a significant effect on the election?

4a. Ideological Positions of Parties

Please indicate Parties A-F's positions on a left-right dimension (in the expert judgment of the CSES Collaborator). If this dimension is not appropriate, please provide an explanation of the salient cleavages, and parties' relative positions.

6. Electoral Alliances:
Sometimes, electoral alliances are made at the constituency level as, for example, in Finland.

Documenting who is allied with whom, and how, in each constituency is a large task and we do not expect you to do more than make some general reference to the existence of constituency-level alliances. Sometimes, electoral alliances are made at the national level -- these are the alliances that we would like you will identify. Information is sought on who is allied with whom and on the nature of the electoral alliance.

a) Were electoral alliances permitted during the election campaign?

Part II: Data on Electoral Institutions

If possible, please supplement this section with copies of the electoral law, voters' handbooks, electoral commission reports, and/or any other relevant materials.

A. QUESTIONS ABOUT ELECTORAL DISTRICTS.

Definitions: An electoral district is defined as a geographic area within which votes are counted and seats allocated. If a district cannot be partitioned into smaller districts within which votes are counted and seats allocated, it is called primary. If it can be partitioned into primary districts, and during the counting process there is some transfer of votes and/or seats from the primary districts to the larger district, then the larger district is called secondary. If a district can be partitioned into secondary districts (again with some transfer of votes and/or seats), it is called tertiary.

In some electoral systems, there are electoral districts that are geographically nested but not otherwise related for purposes of seat allocation. In Lithuania, for example, there are 71 single-member districts that operate under a majority runoff system, and also a single nationwide district that operates under proportional representation (the largest remainders method with the Hare quota). Neither votes nor seats from the single-member districts transfer to the nationwide district, however. The two processes are entirely independent (with voters having one vote in each district). In this case, the nationwide district, although it contains the 71 single-member districts, is not considered to be secondary. It is primary. One might say that there are two segments to the electoral system in such cases.

1. How many segments (as just defined) are there in the electoral system?

- 1 segment
- 2 segments
- more than 2 ... ~...

Please answer the following questions (questions 2 through 11) for each segment of each directly elected house of the legislature:

2. How many primary electoral districts are there?29....

3. For each primary electoral district, how many members are elected from each district? (If district variation exists, answer 3a)

As few as 1 and as many as 13 under SNTV electoral system.

3a. If districts elect varying number of members, please list the districts, indicating the number of members elected from that district. (Attach separate sheets, as required).

District	Number of Members

See the attached sheet.

4. How many secondary electoral districts are there? ...None...

5. How many tertiary electoral districts are there? ...None...

B. QUESTIONS ABOUT VOTING.

6. Exactly how are votes cast by voters?
One vote for candidate.

6a. How many votes do they or can they cast? ...One...

6b. Do they vote for candidates, for lists, or for both? (Explain)

Candidate only.

7. Are the votes transferable? ...No....

8. If more than one vote can be cast, can they be cumulated?

9. Are there any other features of voting that should be noted?

C. QUESTIONS ABOUT CONVERTING VOTES INTO SEATS.

10) Exactly how are votes converted into seats?

10a) Are there legally mandated thresholds that a party must exceed before it is eligible to receive seats? If so, what is the threshold?

10b) What electoral formula or formulas are used?

11) If there are lists, are they closed, open, or flexible? please code below

- a.) closed?
- b) flexible, but in practice virtually closed?
- c) flexible?
- d) flexible, but in practice virtually open? or
- e) open?

Definitions: A list is closed if the seats that are awarded to that list are always occupied by the candidates in order of their appearance on the list (i.e., if the list gets x seats then necessarily the top x names on the list get the seats). A list is open if the question of which candidates on the list get the seats that are awarded to the list is determined solely by the votes that each candidate receives. A list is flexible if parties place their candidates in the order they would like to see them elected, but voters can, with varying degrees of ease, change this order through votes they cast for individual candidates.

Please repeat questions 2 through 11 of this section for each segment of each directly elected house of the legislature.

D. QUESTIONS ABOUT THE POSSIBILITIES OF ELECTORAL ALLIANCE.

Definitions: A joint list refers to one on which candidates of different parties run together.

Apparentement refers to a legal agreement between two or more lists to pool their votes for the purposes of an initial seat allocation, with seats initially allocated to the alliance then reallocated to the lists in the alliance.

12) What are the possibilities of alliance in the system?

No.

12a. Can parties run joint lists?Yes~.....No

12b. Is there apparentement or linking of lists?Yes~.....No

12c. Can candidates run with the endorsement of more than one party?YesNo

12d. Do parties withdraw their lists or candidates in some constituencies, urging their supporters there to vote for an ally's list or candidate?YesNo

12e. Other?

13. Are joint lists possible?No....

Module 2: Macro Report

13a. If joint lists are possible, are they subject to different regulations than single-party lists?

For example, higher thresholds, different numbers of candidates that may appear on the list, etc.

14. If appurement is possible, what lists can participate in such agreements:

lists of the same party in the same constituency?

lists of the same party from different constituencies?

lists of different parties in the same constituency?

15) If candidates can run with the endorsement of more than one party, is this reflected on the ballot?

..... No.

..... No party endorsements are indicated on the ballot paper

..... Yes, candidate s name appears once, together with the names of all supporting parties

..... Yes, candidate s name appears as many times as there are different parties endorsing him or her, each time with the name of the endorsing party

..... Yes, other (please explain)

Part III: Data on Regime Type

Below are various questions about the type of regime--presidential, parliamentary, semi-presidential--in your country. There are two potential problems with these questions that should be noted at the outset. First, in some countries there may be a discrepancy between the de jure (or legal) situation and the de facto (or practical)situation. For example, in Great Britain the Queen still possesses a legal right to veto legislation, but this right has not been exercised since 1707. In the case of such obviously obsolete powers, please answer according to the de facto situation. Otherwise, describe the de jure situation. A second potential problem is that the questions may not be phrased optimally for the situation in your particular country. In such cases, please answer as best you can, providing some indication of the difficulties as you see them.

A. QUESTIONS REGARDING THE HEAD OF STATE.

Definitions: The Head of State is typically the highest ranking official in the executive branch of government. Often, this position is held by a president or a monarch, and may be more ceremonial than effective. The Head of Government is usually the highest ranking official in the legislative branch of government. In some systems, this may be someone other than the Head of State (i.e. the prime minister in the Westminster systems), while in other cases, the roles of the Head of State and Head of Government are combined (i.e. in the United States, the president serves as both the Head of State and the Head of Government).

1. Who is the Head of State?

- ... ~ ... President
- Monarch
- Prime Minister serves as ceremonial head of state
- Other (please specify)

2. How is the head of state selected?

- .. ~ .. Direct election
- Indirect election
- Birth right
- Divine right

..... Other
(Explain)

2a. If by direct election, by what process?

..... Plurality election
..... Run-off or two-ballot system
..... Other
(Explain)

If by run-off system, how are the candidates selected for the final round?

..... The (#) candidates with the highest vote totals advance to the second round
..... Any candidate with at least% of the popular vote advances to the second round

Comparative Study of Electoral Systems
Module 2: Macro Report

2b. If by indirect election, by what process?

..... Electoral college
..... Selection by the legislature
..... Other
(Explain)

If by electoral college, how are electors chosen?.....

.....
.....

Does the electoral college deliberate? Yes No

What is the voting procedure used by the electoral college?

If by the legislature, by which chamber(s) of the legislature? What is the voting procedure used?

3. Does the Head of State have the following powers? [Check all that apply.]

3a. Introduce legislation?Yes ...~...No

3b. Require expedited action on specific legislation? (i.e., set a deadline by which the legislature is required to act on the bill)?Yes ...~...No

Definitions: A Head of State possesses a partial veto when he or she can target specific clauses of a piece of legislation for veto, while promulgating the rest. In the U.S., such vetoes are sometimes called line item vetoes. A Head of State possesses a package veto when he or she can veto the entire piece of legislation submitted by the legislature, but cannot veto some parts and accept others.
